HOW TO BECOME THE PERFECT SUBMISSIVE?

G&J PASSIONATE PRESS

GET TO KNOW HOW TO PLEASE YOUR MASTER EVERY TIME!

The first question is essential for you.

Are you sure you want to become a Submissive Woman?

Certainly, some women usually show submissive behavior quite naturally. Maybe it's a matter of functioning in society, own experiences, or character. However, how do you know whether a woman is truly submissive to her Master?

Let me tell You...

Real submissives typically want to satisfy someone who is more powerful than they are. They may get aroused at the idea of being dominated, humiliated, overpowered, or even punished by their Master.

On the other hand, you probably shouldn't be submissive if you find it offensive to submit to someone else. As an alternative, you can consider turning into a Dominant or a Switch — someone who engages in BDSM in both submissive and dominating roles.

Lastly, truly think about why you desire to become a submissive. Is it because you really find it enjoyable to give up control to someone in a position of dominance? Or is it your partner's goal to control you? Keep in mind that relationships between dominants and submissives must always be a choice. If you think that you are being pressured to submit, refuse to do so.

I'm glad you've made a choice and You still reading this!

Being a submissive woman for your trusted Master is something amazing!

The feelings and emotions that accompany such a relationship are irresistible, and the pleasure you will get from being a submissive is unique, extraordinary, and very exclusive.

In the following pages of this e-book, I will tell you much more about it...

But now, let's start with....

Fundamental Rules of Submission

Educate yourself first

Making the choice to submit is not something that should be taken hastily. Learn as much as You can about submitting before deciding to give in and put yourself at someone else's control.

I'm glad you're reading this guide, and I'll try to teach you everything I know about this topic.

Keep in mind, however, that I may overlook some valuable information. That's why it's a good idea to read other books, blog posts or watch youtube videos, or even listen to podcasts about submission.

Remember that the more often you are exposed to a concept the more obvious it becomes to you, and over time it “enters” your mindset, transforming it to your favor. Take advantage of this and make submissiveness your new normal.

Which of the following forms of educating yourself will you choose to learn even more about the subject of submissiveness?

(choose as many as you like)

- ☐ Books
- ☐ Blog Posts
- ☐ YouTube Videos
- ☐ E-books
- ☐ Community Posts (e.g. Reddit)
- ☐ Podcasts

Identify your Level of Submissiveness

There are several levels of submissiveness that you should be aware of.

Remember that you don't have to immediately jump in at the deep end and be submissive to your master 24/7.

Level 1

If you're just starting on your submissive adventure, it's worth starting with something lighter. In this case, roleplays, in which your roles (submissive and dominant) will be precisely defined, are ideal. You can play them in 2 ways:

The 1st way is Roleplays, where the dominant and submissive are roles themselves. During sex scenes, you can implement activities such as spanking, dirty talking, hair pulling, tying, and other BDSM-related activities.

The 2nd way is Roleplays, where you explore roles that associate one character with the submissive and the other with the dominant. For example, it could be Teacher-Student, Boss-Secretary, Doctor-Nurse, etc. This is for creative couples who will be able to create dialogues related to their roles. BDSM activities are also recommended here.

Which of the given ways appeals to you more?

☐ 1st Way ☐ 2nd Way ☐ Both Ways

If you are at a higher level of submissiveness the above ways are nothing new to you. However, I recommend roleplays with your Master, where you take on different roles and act out dialogues while remaining in a Submissive-Master relationship. It is a lot of fun!

Level 2

Level 2 submissives give their submissiveness more importance in their daily lives.

They may transform into a submissive during certain times, such as during the day, when the Master is in the mood to dominate, or when he assigns her a task to do. During sex, they don't have to play a submissive role - they just feel that way.

Such submissives begin to invest more in themselves, taking care of their bodies, diet, but also in outfits, gadgets, accessories, and sex toys, so as to attract their Master more.

Level 3

This is the highest level of submissiveness, where the submissive is able to serve her Master 24/7.

At this level you are not afraid of collars, handcuffs, spanking and other BDSM activities, in fact, you love them and desire them.

Such a submissive even begins to subjugate most or all areas of her life in order to be close to her Master.

At this level, it is obvious for a submissive to satisfy her Master so she knows how to take care of her body and figure and what clothes and gadgets her Master prefers.

An interesting addition at this level are Ownership contracts and certificates of ownership that can be signed with the Master. Personally, I think it's a nice addition, giving seriousness to the Sub-Dom relationship, but I would opt for something like this only in a long-term relationship with a partner I trust or as part of roleplay.

What level of submissiveness do you think you are currently at?

☐ Level 1 - I want to learn how to be submissive and try BDSM activities during roleplays.

☐ Level 2 - I feel that during a sex session with my Master, I am truly submissive. I am able to take care of myself more to attract my Master. I can invest in outfits and gadgets that will further express my submissiveness.

☐ Level 3 - I am open to a 24/7 relationship with my Master. I am able to subordinate areas of my life to this relationship. I take care of myself and know how to please my Master. I am ready for his every command.

Remaining on this topic, I have a few more questions for you.

What is holding you back from going to the next level of submission?

What would you like your Master to be like?

What conditions of yours would have to be met in order for you to enter level 3 of submissiveness?

*If you want your relationship to grow, talk to your Partner about it or show him these answers.

Know Your Limits

I believe that 2 simple mistakes can be made in this area.

1. staying with what you already know and don't want to try new things.

2. consider that you have no limits and be ready for anything, without necessarily enjoying it.

Remember that even in a Sub-Dom relationship your Preferences, Kinks, but most of all Limits should be respected by your Master. Otherwise, it is a clear Red Flag.

On the other hand, I'd like to encourage you to try all activities, (especially those you'd immediately like to consider a limit), at least 2/3 times. Why not once? Precisely because of your biases and because not everything comes out perfectly the 1st time ;)

Speaking of limits, I have prepared the perfect product for you to check and mark them. If you're not already familiar with Kink List 3.0 then I really encourage you to check it out, and if you bought it as part of a bundle, then the world of submissiveness is open to you!

Common Red Flags in a Sub-Dom Relationship:

- Trying to force you to submit
- Being critical
- Isolating you from your friends and family
- Barring contact with others in the scene
- Trying to “break” you
- Humiliating or belittling you outside of a scene
- Mood swings
- Jealousy
- Not communicating
- Refusing to admit fault or to apologize after making a mistake
- Ignoring requests to use condoms or engage in safer sex
- Pushing your limits
- Forcing you to do things that could harm you such as not allowing you to use the bathroom
- Lying or cheating
- Drug or alcohol abuse especially during a scene
- Prior bad relationships

Know Your... Kinks!

If you think that submissiveness means giving up your pleasure, in favor of the Master then... you are wrong.

A good Master knows what his submissive likes, knows her preferences and kinks and what's more, often leads sex sessions in this way to include them!

Of course, an interesting practice is to use the submissive's limits as a punishment for her behavior. Remember, however, that you must agree to this.

Again, I must mention Kink List 3.0, where you will find more than 1200 Kinks and fetishes! I've collected them all for you, and I believe you will discover activities you have never dreamed of!

Safety should always come first.

To be clear, whether you're submitting to some delightful torture, like getting flogged or hot wax play, there is an element of danger or potential harm in any BDSM activity.

Before starting any BDSM session, always set up a safeword and take the time to understand how to use any toys or BDSM equipment properly.

With a Safe Word a submissive could stop a scene or slow it down at any moment by using this short word or phrase, no questions asked!

However, when selecting a safeword, terms like "stop" and "no" should be avoided because they frequently increase excitement in a given moment at the BDSM scene.

So now come up with your safe word and share it with your Master.

SAFE WORD:

Communication is a key

In a dominant/submissive relationship, communication is crucial.

This is not the moment to be ashamed - if you find it awkward to discuss your deepest sexual fantasies and turn-offs, it could seriously affect your enjoyment of this relationship.

You and your Master should discuss your wants, desires, and sexual fantasies before a BDSM scene starts.

It's crucial to let your partners know about any limits and turn-offs you may have, too. Set boundaries and be clear about your limits as soon as you can.

To make sure that all sexual activity is truly consensual, You need to be able to communicate honestly and freely with your partner.

Since I know that not everyone finds it easy to communicate openly about their fetishes, fantasies or limits then you can use other forms of communicating your needs:

What form of communication works for you?

☐ Conversation	☐ Sending Gifs	☐ Other:
☐ Kink List	☐ Sending 18+ Videos	☐

Be Active, not Passive

"Submissive" does not mean "Passive." Being open and responsive should be the main focus of submission, but initiating activity on the part of the submissive side is extremely valuable to your Master.

Learn to be giving. Be observant, open your eyes to be open to seeing, hearing, and understanding what pleases Him. Then give pleasure generously. A good dominant will do the same for you. The best dominants know what you need even more than you do.

Don't be critical. One of the most damaging things you can do to a relationship, whether it is D/s or not, is to be critical. Tell him what he's doing correctly, not what you think he should do better. Tell him why you are grateful for him. Seek out and value his finest abilities.

Be kind to Your Master. We are all imperfect. You must be willing to accept his mistakes if you want him to accept yours.

What are you grateful to your Master for?

Getting Advanced

As you already know the basics of being a submissive we can move on to advanced topics.

There are many different kinds of experiences that come with being submissive, and you and your partner are free to explore any kind of pleasure you like.

Now let's talk about practicing a Submissive–Dominant relationship in the bedroom:

Task or Punishment

Task and punishment are the two main factors during the majority of dominant and submissive sexual interactions.

The sub is required to carry out specific tasks during this kind of session, like giving a footjob or engaging in oral sex, and they will be punished accordingly if they violate the dom's rules.

Before engaging in D/s play, let your master come up with rules that will apply during the sex scene – such as deciding on acceptable clothing choices, sex positions, speaking to the Master, having her hands tied during the task, etc.

Based on this rules, your Master will be able to punish you, and you will be aware of what it is for.

Task and Punishment or Reward

Often when playing in such a relationship, not only punishments but also rewards can be used for the submissive.

These should be reserved for activities that the submissive does not do with pleasure, are a challenge to her, are something new, or when it is the Submissive's limit and the Master's kink.

Such rewards should be appropriate to the submissive's commitment and can be related to physical pleasure, orgasm, but also taking her on a date or giving her a gift.

If you're wondering what Tasks and Punishments you can order for your submissive, I've prepared over 400 ideas for you!
You can find them all in my store or by clicking on products below:

Impact Play

Erotic spanking is a form of impact play in which the dom spanks the sub in consenting and reciprocal sexual pleasure, using their hands, a whip, a paddle, or a crop.

Spanking can be used as a kinky punishment during submission and dominance play, or as foreplay before sexual activity.

An erotic spanking can improve sexual pleasure by increasing blood flow to the groin area and releasing positive chemicals like dopamine and endorphins into the brain.

Dirty Talking

One of the most important aspects of submissive behavior in a D/s relationship is speaking specific language in bed. You can show that your partner is in charge by using respectful pronouns like "Master" or " Sir " when addressing them as a sub.

You can also consider giving polite advice if you're both new to D/s play and you see that your partner is unsure of how to act as a Dom. For example, you may advise what you will do for him or how they can discipline you for misbehaving.

Remember, that dirty talk is a brilliant enrichment of a sex session, in which you and your partner can further express yourself in this way with phrases such as “ahhh Master, fuck me harder!” or “Open your mouth wide my submissive bitch and take it deep”.

Outfits

Outfits are a very important part of sex scenes in a sub-dom relationship. Well-chosen outfits perfectly highlight the roles of the dominant and submissive.

For example, the master may be wearing a suit and shoes or be dressed in other elegant clothing, while the submissive will be dressed in sexy lingerie, appropriate roleplay-like costume - such as a schoolgirl or nurse, or may remain naked while the partner is fully clothed.

Bondage

In this sexual activity, one partner restrains the other, who is typically the sub, with the use of tools. Ropes, leather straps, bondage tape, ties, handcuffs, spreader bars, ball gags, blindfolds, and chains are among the most widely used restraints. The purpose of these toys is to increase mutual sexual satisfaction and give the Master control by limiting the sub's senses and range of motion.

Outside the Bedroom

If you are brave enough, your submissiveness can go beyond the boundaries of the bedroom. That's when the real fun begins!

I'm not just talking about you and your Master having to go to a public place and perform tasks there. Yes, this is also a great idea and I have prepared more than 50 ideas for tasks in public places, but this is not the only thing.

What's really great about a relationship like this is being ready for your master in any situation – in the kitchen, in your room, when he sends you a task via SMS, when he wants to fuck you in a public place – that's the true submission you want to strive for. Be ready for your master in every possible place and time.

To make it easier for you to achieve such a state, I'll give you a few tips that you can follow on a daily basis:

Desire to Adventure

Embrace and actively seek out exciting and new activities that will stretch out your comfort zone. Are you in a car in a parking lot? Give your Master a blowjob without asking, etc.

Want to Cooperate

If your relationship is to be successful, it is good for you and your Master to work together. Such cooperation can be creating scenes for sex sessions together, coming up with ideas for roleplays, talking about your ideas, etc.

Try Alternative Communication

Words are not the only form of communication with your Master. You can also use your phone for this by sending him a sexy selfie or receiving tasks to do, you can leave sticky notes, and you can also communicate with gestures, when your master, with a movement of his hand, shows you what position to take.

Intellectual Submission

Submission on an intellectual level can be just as inviting as the physical one. Agree with your master's views, opinions, ideas, and agree with him in conversation.

Pet Play

Pet is the perfect definition of submissiveness. It is dependent only on you, and in the same way, you be dependent only on your master. You can also behave like a dog or cat, moving on 4 paws, wearing a collar, eating from a bowl – feel the way a pet feels.

Serve without being asked

Remember that you don't always need your Master's command to act. When he gets home massage his feet, prepare a bath or food for him – a good submissive knows what her Master needs.

Surprise him

Everyone loves surprises, even your master. Surprise him with a new outfit, stilettos, an erotic gadget, a sex position, and a suggestion to get away for the weekend. I assure you that any surprise will be appreciated. It will be worth it to you!

Be Creative

A creative submissive is the most valuable thing your Master can have. Thanks to you, you don't have to be bored, and you can suggest activities or initiate ideas that your Master wouldn't have come up with. I recommend you to read the forums on the blog or buy other products on Etsy, where you will find tons of inspiration for your creative ideas!

Exploration of Sensors

Don't be afraid to play with your senses. Let your master blindfold you to make you feel pleasure more strongly. Or put on headphones with music so you can't hear what your Master is doing. Or maybe let your master take away all your senses, including tying you up, and see what he will do with you...

#10

Get to know yourself better

Remember that in your relationship you are as important as your master. It is important that you are able to write down your reflections after sessions of sex or other activities with your master. That's why I've prepared more than 500 questions for you to choose from and write down your answer. You will find them in this product:

In conclusion, submissiveness for your Master is something amazing and if I were you, I would look forward to putting all these tips and rules into practice.

I'm sure you will both benefit from it!

Here's a cheat sheet for you:

- "Yes, Sir (or Master, Daddy, etc.)" is usually the most appropriate simple answer.

- Don't try to "top from the bottom" or criticize your Dom's choices.

- Always try to act appropriately and modestly, keeping in mind that your behavior directly affects your Dom.

- Attempt to fulfill your Dom's desires in more ways than just sex. You might have to give up some of your personal liberties and preferences as a result of this.

- Don't be apathetic or irritated when serving. Show that you really want to be owned.

- Recognize that being a sub requires a lot of work on your part, both sexually and mentally. Make sure you're prepared for the challenge.

- Try your best to satisfy your Dom's needs, taking seriously what they could be at any given moment.

- Never forget that your goal should be to make your Dom's life easier rather than harder.

- As much as possible, comply with the rules; if discipline is necessary, take it with grace.

- You are a reflection of your Dom, so take great care of your physical condition and look of your body.

- A good sub appreciates giving up control, serving Master, and being used
